About White Cliff Nickel Limited

White Cliff Nickel is a Western Australian based nickel explorer which listed on ASX in December 2007 having raised $6 million. White Cliff Nickel's core project is the White Cliff nickel project. Projects recently acquired by White Cliff Nickel include a nickel/gold project at Lake Johnson.

The White Cliff nickel project is situated 60 kilometres south-east of Laverton WA. White Cliff Nickel has signed an MOU with a Korean consortium, comprising Daewoo International Corporation and the 100% government owned Korea Resources Corporation, to joint venture this project which covers over 1,000 square kilometres in this prospective region.

The Lake Johnson Project contains excellent prospectivity for komatite associated nickel sulphides and amphibolite-facies high-grade gold mineralisation. The project covers 670km<sup>2</sup> of the Lake Johnson Greenstone Belt, and lies approximately 180 kilometres east of Hyden and 90 Kilometres west of Norseman, Western Australia. The Lake Johnson Greenstone Belt contains Norlisk's Emily Ann and Maggie Hayes nickel sulphide mines that have a combined resource of approximately 140,000 tonnes contained nickel.

White Cliff Nickel also has two iron ore projects in the Pilbara and a gold project north east of Kalgoorlie.
